

Title- Often People Ask How Birds Are Affected by the Air

- Hanna Husberg's audio visual installation talks about the politics of air in Beijing.
- She does this through interviews with the people living there and assumptions of how air will be in the future.
- Air, here, is tracked through scientific measurements.
- The installation uses visuals that correlate with existing ideas of air. These also act as a source of light since they are projected on a wall in a dark room.
- The visuals change from spoken to written language.
